The weather yesterday was a trifle more pro pitious than on Thursday, in that the snow didn't fall in flurries and the sun consented to shine at short intervals. But the northwest wind swept across the field with penetrating bartenders in the neighboring saloons. Manager Irwin, after making a thorough investigation into the condition of his men, trifle stiff from their efforts on Thursday, so he concluded to work the men against the collegians with care and consideration. He made up his mind to play nine innings, but the liberality with which he changed his players made the New Yorks' side of the score total sixteen men. The professionals still restrained their throwing arms, and the pitchers, with the exception of Doheny, shunned speed.

The game was of course a walkover for the Leaguers, but the Manhattans did so well that their followers were in the happiest frame of With clean support young Driscoll, who pitched most cleverly, would have held the run column down to an urusually small limit. As column down to an urusually small limit. As it was he fooled the heavy hitters on the New York team with a slow curve ball, which was prettily controlled and skilfully handled by Catcher Kelly.

The Manhattans have a team that should make sny college nine hustle. J. Cotter, the first baseman, proved a ratting fielder and hitter, while McDonald, in right field, collared a couple of long drives in a manner creditable to the best League stars. The weak spot on the team was at third base. Shea's errors being responsible for five runs. But in other respects the fielding was excellent and a surprise to the crowd.

the fielding was excellent and a surprise to the crowd.

Doheny made his bow in the New York box, and for four innings he sent his swift curves across the plate like hot tamales. In that time the Manhattans got but two safe hits, no bases on balls, and three men struck out. Flynn relieved the Vermont southpaw for three succeeding innings, during which two more hits were plunked out, and a solitary run was talled. That was in the seventh inning, and resulted from a force hit by J. Cotter, Kelly's base on balls, and Battam's wide throw to second of Cohalan's grounder. Seymore, the Albany "phenom," then bitched the game out with no hits and no runs.

suited from a force mit by J. Cotter, hear's bases on balls, and Battam's wide throw to second of Cohalan's grounder. Seymore, the Albany "phenom," then bitched the game out with no hits and no runs.

At the end of the fourth inning Irwin was so deafened by the general chattering of teeth that he sent H. Davis, Pfeffer, G. Davis, and Wilson to the stove in the dressing room and substituted Clark, Fuller, Battam, and Foster respectively. Battam promptly distinguished himself by driving a corking three-bacger into the right field seats, and making a beautiful running pick-up and throw. Pfeffer did the cleanest hitting for the New Yorks, and covered second bag in something like his old form. Stafford scooped in five difficult sky scrapers, and Connaughton used his bat with good eye and plenty of beef.

In the last half of the first inning Irwin's men poiled up four runs. Van Haltren received a base and G. Davis punched a single into left. Shea made a mess of Cavelle's grounder and Van scored, but on another bounder to Driscoil from H. Davis, G. Davis was run down between third and home, five of the college players assisting. Connaughton was hit with a pitched ball, and on Pfeffer's hot base int to centre H. Davis and the stocky short stop sprinted home. Pfeffer also came in on a passed ball and a wild throw by the catcher. Good pitching and expert fielding bianked the Leaguers after that until the fifth inning, when two more runs were put up on Van's single. Battam's out. Clark's base on balls, Connaughton's bunt and steal, and a wild throw by Shea.

Another error by Shea, coupled with Van's single. Battam's triple, hits by Cavelle and Fuller, and Connaughton's "force," increased the total to ten in the sixth inning, while Battam's as on the steal, and Connaughton's bunt and steal, and as wild throw by gleas.

Baseball Notes

Tiernan has been ordered by his physician to lay Cavelle is a fast fielder and base runner, but lacks sperience with the bat. President Freedman has turned the settlement of Rusto's case over to Irwin.

The Philadelphias lost their first game of the The New Yorks' regulars and second team will play at Manhattan Field to-morrow. Van Haltren complains of pains in his back and wheat, as a result of the sudden change of climate.

J. Cottor of the Manhattan College team played with Georgetown College and Atlantic City last Gleason will be here to morrow and resume his work at second base. Pfeffer will move over to short field.

Manager Irwin says that Zearfoss is worth all the money expended by the New York Club on the recent Southern trip. John B. Day was among the spectators at yester-day's game. He was pleased with the showing of some of the new colts. The Winona Baseball Club is ready to receive allienges. Address Manager George Barrett, 21 revoort place, Brooklyn. It is probable that the colt team, which will represent this city in the Atlantic League, will be called the "Metropolitans."

The Washingtons will play their first game of the peason to morrow. Their opponents will be Ted Builivan's New Haven team.

McGraw, the Baltimore third baseman, is seri-usly ill at Atlanta and may not play at all this eason, in which event Donnelly will try to fill his

PATON WINS AT RACQUET.

Defeats Hall in the Piret-class Handleap Tourney at the Racquet and Tennis Club. The final match at racquets in the first-class handicap tournament at the Racquet and Tennis Club resulted in a bit of a surprise yesterday afternhon. As winner of the recent club championship, V. G. Hail was booked as a certainty by students of form, but M. S. Paton made greet use of the liberal handicap allotted to him and held the crack safe from the start. The handicap as originally framed placed Hall on scratch and allowed Paton two aces in each game. Hall and allowed Paton two aces in each game. Hall was subsequently penalized half a hand for winning the club championship, and this meant a great deal to an aggressive player like Paton, who, with an extra hand every second time he got in, would be likely to assert himself in any company.

The opening game was a rare struggle from the start, Paton just managing to pull out by three aces on his net score. During the second game the contest waged even warmer, and Hall forced his opponent to set, but Paton was equal to the occasion and captured the extra games. In the third match Paton piled his racquet with great effect, and ended suspense with a series of runs which earned him a winning acore while Hall was reaching eight. Paton accordingly won the match and tournament by 15-10, 17-14, 15-8.
